Before the mobility

Table A - Traineeship Programme at the Receiving Organisation/Enterprise
Planned period of the mobility: from [month/year] Nov. 2020 to [month/year] May 2021
Traineeship title: Scanner and photography editor	Number of working hours per week: 35h
Detailed programme of the traineeship: The goal of the traineeship is to teach the use of color in film photography for modern day photograph adapting the palette of the film for each client.  We focus on working with international photographers that use film primarily for their work, as well as passionate aficionados that are looking to obtain the best results with this old medium using modern day tools.  Week 1 - Introduction to the company's workflow: understanding all the parts involve the film image creation process. There will be some material given for study and later asked about. One of the key roles is to provide feedback to photographers about their work, these can be experienced photographers, maybe working for more than 10 years with film, so the feedback given has to be solid and well informed, therefore the editor needs to have this knowledge.  Week 2 to 4 - Developing the eye for fine color correction skills: This is the first month of evaluation, color is such a subjective matter that it takes time to understand how it works on different scanners, film types etc... This month is focused on achieving the quality needed to be delivered to the client. This month is intensively coached by the chief editor supervising every work before delivering and applying the corrections needed in order to match the look that the photographer needed.  Week 4 to 12 - Gaining speed and precision: The trainee will start getting bigger jobs that require more complexity in the color correction and will be as well supervised, but also there will be more simple jobs assigned that will be delivered without supervision yet we will have a feedback evaluation by the client itself. The aim during this period is to perfect quality on the higher complex jobs but at the same time work on the speed of the editing. The same editing can be done in 50 steps or 10 steps, it is through skill and eye training that precise editing skills are developed. During this period of time the goal is to translate the editing color skills into the scanning process.  Week 13 to 24 - Apply the skills on a real world environment: The goal is to achieve professional level in skills, polish the client communication when providing feedback and understand the problem solving process, the importance of email and how to approach a client when it is not satisfied with the job delivered. The revisions during this period should be minor or very specific and it is expected to work alongside team as one more asset. It is expected that in this period the trainee will have a full understanding of the company work and can dig a bit deeper in those aspects that are missing some knowledge.  There will be a meeting (both with the chief editor and the manager) with the trainee in between each period to evaluate the evolution and her well-being and adaptation to the team. The week periods are orientative and can be stretched to suit the needs and development of the trainee.  As a young company we also have been trainees in the past and we've seen the huge difference that the training process has on the development of the trainee. We take it as seriously as when a new team member is hired and the goal is that the trainee experience a real world professional development during the traineeship.

Knowledge, skills and competences to be acquired by the end of the traineeship (expected Learning Outcomes): scanning, editing, understanding the functioning of the lab, reading color profiles and apply to high end clients.
Monitoring plan: Daily reviews on the job done (color grading), coaching during the contact with the client via email. Weekly evaluation by the head staff in order to improve and evolve as a professional inside the role of a photo editor and scanner.
Evaluation plan: Internal feedback provided by clients (from 1 to 5). Meeting with the supervisors to evaluate attitude, performance and adaptation to the workflow. The job requires a fair amount of subjective evaluation so it has to be done periodically and taking in count many factors.
